PRESIDENT HOOVER RECOVERS AS AMERICAN CAMPAIGN CLOSES

NEW PROPOSALS WILL PROTECT LABOURING MAN

Social Legislation. In Preparation.

COMMISSION'S REPORT.

London, To-day.
The final report of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, which is expected to form the basis of Legislation in the Parliamentary Session which begins on November 22, was issued last night. The Chairman, Judge Holman Gregory, and four members, signed the main report and there is a minority report signed by two other members, but the recommendations of the Commission on many points are unanimous.

The main proposals are, briefly, a dual system of insurance and relief. An insured worker who has paid the minimum number of contributions will be entitled to a fixed payment for a limited time without enquiry into his needs.

Workers who are not insured, including those over the income limit of £250 per annum, and insured workers who have exhausted their insurance rights, will be relieved according to their needs under a relief service administered by the local authorities and supervised by the Minister of Labour.

Retention is recommended of the Unemployment Insurance Scheme substantially on the lines of the present in force, as a "first line of defence for the great majority of unemployed," and it is made clear that such a scheme, together with the unemployment assistance scheme which they propose, should be linked up with arrangements for the training and the occupation of unemployed.

The Ministry of Labour should be generally responsible for the control and development of the new service for maintaining through employment exchanges, contact between persons affected by the service and opportunities of employment and for ensuring that the test of needs is administered in accordance with uniform principles throughout the country.

Some variations between the areas may be desirable by reason of the differences in the cost of living, cost of transport to work and other local circumstances, but they should be limited. The main cost of the new service should be borne by the Exchequer, but the local authorities should contribute a share, as they must have a financial interest in their decisions.

COUNCIL MEETING ON THURSDAY.

Routine Business
On Agenda.

At the Legislative Council meeting on Thursday, the Attorney General will move that the rules dated October 15, 1932, made by the Chief Justice under section 114 of the Bankruptcy Ordinance, 1932, be approved, also that the scale of fees and percentages dated October 15, 1932, prescribed by the Chief Justice under section 115 of the Bankruptcy Ordinance, 1931, be approved.

The Attorney General will also move the First Reading of (a) a Bill to amend the Opium Ordinance, 1932; (b) a Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the establishment and regulation of the Police Force and (c) a Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Prisons, lastly, the Attorney General will move the Second Reading of a Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Companies.

ANOTHER BLOW TO IRISH EXPORT TRADE.

Britain Doubles Duties On Livestock, Raises Others.

London, To-day.
From November 9, the Irish Free State live animals exported to Britain will pay a 40 per cent. duty instead of 20 per cent. imposed in July and dairy produce, bacon, pork, poultry and game will pay 30 per cent. duties.

The announcement comes on the heels of the Dublin declaration that farm produce exporters would be assisted to beat British duties by a bonus from the Government.—Reuter.

SPECIAL COURT TREATY EXPIRES NEXT APRIL 1

Government Questioned
As To Plans.

REFORMS ARE URGED.

London, To-day.
Replying to Sir John Wardlaw-Milne regarding the revision of the agreement in Shanghai respecting the Special District Court, Sir John Simon said no notice had been given to terminate the agreement. The matter was discussed in the House of Commons yesterday.

Proper measures to remedy existing abuses were under consideration and had been discussed by the British Charge d'Affaires and the Chinese authorities, he added.

Sir John Wardlaw-Milne said it was desirable to give notice "if we are to get real reforms," and suggested if notice were given the Government should endeavour to make sure the Municipal Council in Shanghai was fully consulted regarding the necessary changes and that it be represented if necessary on any body established to consider them.

Sir John Simon said he would like time to consider the suggestion.

The agreement in the matter of the Special Court expires in April, 1933.—Reuter.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA
DEFEATED.

M.C.C. Win By Innings and 128 Runs.

Adelaide, To-day.
The M.C.C. to-day defeated South Australia by an innings and 128 runs.

South Australia scored 216 in their follow-on, of which Catchlove scored 65, in 200 minutes.

Catchlove's innings included three boundaries.

Verity was the most successful M.C.C. bowler, claiming five wickets for 42 runs, while Bowes and F. R. Brown captured two wickets each for 57 and 66 runs respectively.—Reuter.

REPUBLICAN RALLY IN MID-WEST

ROOSEVELT FAVOURITE AS POLLS OPEN TO-DAY

PROHIBITION ISSUE DOMINANT

ALL BUSINESS HOUSES WERE CLOSED AND WORK WAS AT A STANDSTILL TO-DAY THROUGHOUT THE UNITED STATES AS AMERICANS WENT TO THE POLLS TO SELECT THEIR PRESIDENT FOR THE NEXT FOUR YEARS. THE CAMPAIGNING CLOSED LAST NIGHT WITH THE USUAL WILD PROMISES AND DECLARATIONS BY THE CANDIDATES TO THE ACCOMPANIMENT OF THE CUSTOMARY TUMULTUOUS SCENES.

Republicans staged a more spectacular final rally as the Democrats played for caution and a swing towards President Hoover was indicated. Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt remains the strong favourite, however, and it appears that the White House will be occupied by the first Democratic President since 1920.

The election has been fought on economic and financial grounds, the Democrats possessing a decided advantage in that they were able to criticise past Republican administration.

Prohibition remains a dominating factor and millions of voters will support Governor Roosevelt for the sole purpose of accomplishing another step towards the repeal of the 19th amendment.

President Hoover.

While it is expected that Governor Roosevelt will win a big majority of the electoral States there is much speculation on the effect of President Hoover's last minute appeal to the disgruntled farmers of the mid-west.

Final Drive.

Washington, Nov. 2.

While Democratic leaders were beginning to relax their drive, confident they already have the November 8 election in the bag, the Republican party machine had full steam up to-day from one end of the country to the other. In as concentrated a drive for the re-election of a President as the nation has ever seen.

Realizing the uncertainty of his own state, President Herbert Hoover reached out across the continent via the radio and addressed the people of California in a broadcast put on the air only in that state. His message dealt with tariff matters primarily affecting California.

Vice President Charles Curtis and Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the Interior, were in the Rocky Mountain states, campaigning.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson was in Dayton stumping for his chief, while Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills was trying his

The small colony of American citizens here, supplemented by the force of the U.S. Asiatic Fleet now in port, a large Colony in Shanghai, and several thousands of Americans in the Philippines, none of whom have a vote, are awaiting with the keenest interest for the results of the election.

They are not the only ones who are interested. The American nation is voting on the prohibition issue and the outcome is watched by the world.

fortunes in New York city as a campaigner.

The tone of their remarks stressed the fact that the Republican administration had proved safe in the present period of economic struggle which has left much of the world in a chaotic state.

In his California broadcast, which was carried across the country on telephone wires and released from Pacific Coast stations, Hoover defended the protective tariff.

GOLD'S RETURN AWAITS WORLD TRADE REVIVAL

Britain And Japan Firmly Agreed.

CONFERENCE DISCUSSION.

Geneva, To-day.

The attitude of Great Britain with regard to the gold standard is the dominating issue before the monetary side of the world conference on exports, which is being held as preparatory to a World Economic Conference.

Yesterday the British delegates most firmly insisted that recovery of price levels and the freer flow of trade and capital must precede any action that may eventually be contemplated in respect of gold standard readjustments.

It was noteworthy that Japan's delegate, Mr. T. Sushima, supported the British views, adding that a return to the gold standard must also be governed by national domestic conditions.—Reuter.

S. AUSTRALIA PUSHES SCORE TO 175 FOR 6

English Bowling Too
Good For Batsmen.

VICTORY PRACTICALLY CERTAIN.

Adelaide, To-day.
South Australia are in danger of an innings defeat in their follow on against the M.C.C., as they require another 170 runs with only four wickets in hand. Unless their tail wags, defeat is imminent.

South Australia advanced their over-night score of 102 for 2 to 175 by lunch to-day, but in doing so lost four more valuable wickets. The score now reads 175 for 6.

Full scores are as follows—M.C.C.: 634 for 9 dec. (Sutcliffe 154, Leyland 127, Nwab of Patand 0, D. R. Jardine 108 not out, R. E. S. Wyatt 81, Larwood 81, C. V. Grimmett 4 for 176, M. G. Waite 2 for 108).

South Australia: 290 (K. Nitsche 69, V. Y. Richardson 134, F. R. Brown 4 for 81, Verity 3 for 45).

N.Y. Stocks Gain Slightly

Turn-Over Of 1,600,000
Shares Yesterday.

The market was brisk in New York, and business yesterday was average, above 1,600,000 shares changing hands. The market behaved well, and it seems that a condition is developing where favourable news of any kind will be emphasised and unfavourable news minimised, states Messrs. E. A. Pierce and Company's report.

The Dow Jones Averages for industrial, rails and utilities show an upward trend, industrials rising 2.17 to 64.58, while rails advanced 1.13 to 28.04. Utilities, quoted at 27.87, show a rise of .57.

To-day, being Presidential election day, the New York Stock Exchange will be closed, and orders received to-day will be executed to-morrow.

British Stocks Fall.

London, To-day.
The Stock Exchange closed with British stocks the worst points of the day War Loan Assented being three-quarters lower at 99, and the new Conversion Loan, after changing hands freely, at 1/2 discount.—British Wireless Service.

WIRELESS SERVICE FOR EMPIRE.

Two-Hour Programmes
From Daventry.

London, To-day.
The British Broadcasting Corporation has now completed arrangements for a scheme for supplying all parts of the British Empire with wireless service from December 16.

On the short wave length from Daventry, two hour programmes will be transmitted at the following times—

Australian Zone 9.80 to 11.30 p.m.
Indian Zone 2.30 to 4.30 p.m.
African Zone 6 to 8 p.m.
West African Zone 8.30 to 10.30 p.m.
Canadian Zone 1 to 3 a.m.

One innovation is the provision of a list of the programmes recorded on gramophones discs for transmission from local stations throughout the Empire.—British Wireless Service.

JAPAN'S CONSUL BEATEN BY MEN OF GUARD FORCE

Su Ping-wen's Troops
Turn On Government.

WOMEN, CHILDREN FLEE.

Tokyo, To-day.

How the Japanese Consul at Manchuli, M. Yamasaki, was beaten by Su Ping-wen's troops when they took over the city, was graphically told by refugees to the special correspondent of the Tokyo Nichi-Nichi at Matzevskaya.

On the morning of September 27, when Su Ping-wen's railway guards turned against the Manchukuo, M. Yamasaki was summoned to the headquarters of the local commander. There he was maltreated by the soldiers, who kicked him, knocked off his glasses and injured his right eye.

They later detained him at the Japanese Consulate. Sixty-seven women and fifty-four children are now at Matzevskaya, whence they fled from Manchuli through the good offices of the Soviet authorities.—Reuter.

MORE MEN WORK IN BRITAIN.

Employment Figures
Are Encouraging

London, To-day.
A substantial diminution in the number of unemployed was shown in returns issued last night by the Ministry of Labour stating that on October 24 there were approximately 9,397,000 insured persons, aged from 16 to 64 in employment in Great Britain.

This was 246,000 more than in the month before but 51,000 less than the year before. Of the increase since September 26 in the numbers of insured persons in employment, approximately half is due to the resumption of work upon termination of the dispute in the manufacturing section of the Cotton Industry.

Unemployed on the register on October 24 numbered 111,000 less than in the month previously.—British Wireless Service.

RESCUE SHIP WINS PRAISE OF PASSENGERS

President Madison's Splendid Work.

SEAMAN SWIMS ASHORE.

The heroism of men of the President Madison and of the skill of her skipper in rescuing the three survivors of the s.s. Nevada, which was wrecked in the north Pacific, is told in a letter signed by every passenger of the President liner. The letter is sent to the American Mail Line, Seattle.

"We, the undersigned, who comprise the entire list of first and special class passengers of the s.s. President Madison, who were aboard on the occasion when this vessel effected a rescue of the survivors of the wrecked freighter Nevada, of the State Steamship Company, on September 29, 1932, at Amatignak Island, one of the Aleutian Group, wish to take this opportunity to express our unanimous view that the rescue was effected under such difficult and dangerous circumstances that the feat does great credit to the master, the officers and the men of the s.s. President Madison. We regard the exploit as extraordinary, and desire that these men should know our feelings of appreciation for the acts of skilled seamanship and exceptional heroism without which this rescue could not have been accomplished. These circumstances have left with us a deep impression of respect and confidence for the master, the officers and men, of this passenger steamship.

"We wish here to draw attention to those circumstances which, in our opinion, mark this feat as especially meritorious. The rescue of the survivors of the freighter Nevada was only made possible by the skill in seamanship exhibited by Captain R. J. Healy, Master of the s.s. President Madison. After intercepting the distress signal of the Nevada which gave the unfortunate freighter's bearings, the only wireless message received from that ship, Captain Healy, remaining on the bridge for thirty-six hours, steered a course remarkably direct to Amatignak Island, navigating his ship to within a distance from which observations could be made (Continued on Page 4.)

CONSERVATIVES ANXIOUS FOR AGRICULTURE

Unemployment Issue
In Parliament.

MR. McDONALD'S PLAN.

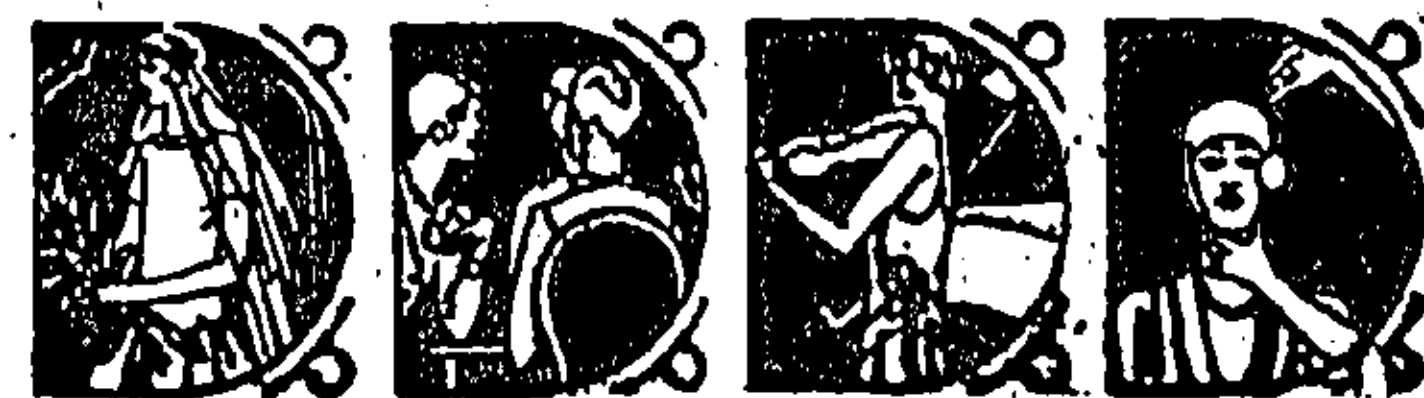

London, To-day.

Agriculture, like other industries, must use the tariff to work out its own salvation, declared Premier MacDonald in the House of Commons debate on unemployment yesterday. The Government, he said, intends to increase the efficiency of British work and open new markets.

Subsequent speakers showed incipient revolt among the Conservatives who urged preferential treatment of agriculture. Mr. Lloyd George, advocating a small holdings scheme, said not one per cent. of the labourers in Britain owned any land. He declared £200,000,000 would suffice for a scheme of small holdings, while the present system of dodes would require £400,000,000. (Continued on Page 7.)

"DIZZY" ROOMS BANNED.

Placing Furniture With Care.

In recent furniture shows, prominence was given to a sofa which was a sort of symposium of the best-liked characteristics as indicated by average buyers during the past year.

This sofa had a slightly bowed front and three loose cushions covered with melon-stripe frieze. It measured 64 inches inside its low modified arms. It thus became a semi-formal piece which would take its place with unobtrusive charm as the centre of any convenient grouping.

An indication of the adaptability of its design was the fact that it was shown alongside a picturesque scotch-seated chair upholstered in floral-patterned green rep. Small tables, adaptable and decorative, completed the grouping.

Purchase of a new sofa or other large piece of furniture usually necessitates rearrangement of the room.

Large pieces of furniture should parallel the walls of the room, and never be placed across corners. The inevitable effect of "cater-cornered" arrangements is to make the room appear dizzy, irritating and awkward, instead of being gracious, friendly and comfortable.

There is no rule for arrangement, except that the pieces should be put where they can be used most easily. Tables at the end of a sofa provide a place for needed lamps. Book cases on the wall will lift a sofa grouping and give it needed appearance of height.

MOTHERS MUST SUFFER.

Hungarian Song Of Love And Sorrow.

An old Hungarian song tells the following story:

A youth once loved a wicked woman. She asked for his mother's heart for a plaything. He carried out her wishes.

Running to bring the heart to his love he tripped against a stone and fell. The heart dropped from his hands and rolled in the dust.

Lying there it spoke, "Are you hurt, my son?"

It is an old song but its theme is even older. Mother love has always been sung as the ultimate devotion of which human nature is capable.

A mother must forgive every fault, every sin, even that final one when her child turns from her in preference for a newcomer.

There comes a time in every mother's life when she must give up her children. She must prepare for this.

Mothers must not be selfish. However, she should advise her children and if she sees them forming love for unfit companions she must prevent it.

The tragedy of mother love is inescapable. Early bonds must be broken to give place to a relationship that grants to the child his emotional freedom.

The mother who tries to hold her son in all the closeness of the childhood relationship through adolescence and into adult life compels him at last to break from her with the feeling that he is doing a thing which may well be symbolically expressed as the tearing of her heart from her breast.

Spinach is now one of the most popular and most available of all greens in the markets. Very careful cleaning is required to free it from grit. Cut off the roots to separate the leaves and put through a number of waters, removing wilted or discoloured leaves. Use enough water to float the spinach so that the sand will free itself and sink to the bottom. Cook in a steamer until tender. Be specially careful not to overcook spinach, as prolonged cooking makes it dark coloured, strong in flavour and unpleasantly soft. Chop when done, and season with butter, salt and pepper.

Devised Shrimps.

Sprinkle shrimps with lemon juice, salt and cayenne pepper and let stand for 15 minutes. Roll in flour, dip in slightly beaten egg and roll in fine crumbs. Fry in deep fat and decorated with a spray of parsley.

Baked Stuffed Cucumber.

3 cucumbers, 1 cup stale bread serve on rounds or buttered toast crumbs 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 teaspoon minced parsley, 1/2 teaspoon celery salt, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, 2 slices diced bacon, 1/2 cup tomato puree, and 1/2 cup stock. Peel the cucumbers, cut them lengthwise into halves and scoop out the centres. Blend all the other ingredients except the stock, fill the cavities with the mixture and place close together in a baking pan.

Pour the stock around and bake in a moderate oven for half an hour, basting occasionally with the liquid.

Baked Chocolate Pudding.

1 pint milk, 3 oz. brown bread-crumbs, 2 oz. sugar, 2 oz. chocolate pod powder, 3 eggs. Boil milk and add chocolate powder, bread-crumbs and sugar. Cool for a little. Add the beaten yolks. Whip whites and place on top. Bake in a greased pie dish for 15 minutes.

TOMATO IS RICH IN VALUES.

Mineral And Vitamin In Jucy Fruit.

Tomatoes are so widely used in this generation and enjoy such universal popularity that few people realize that their use for food is of comparatively recent origin, observes the market specialist of the Canadian Government Department of Agriculture. Although tomatoes are mentioned in North American records as early as 1781, it was not until well on in the 19th Century that this, one of the most nutritious of all fruits, came into popular favour on the North American continent.

Like the tobacco plant, the tomato is a native of the western hemisphere. Peru is thought to have been its original habitat and the natives of Mexico are known to have grown tomatoes since very early times. They called them Xitomates or Zitomates from which the present word, tomato, has probably been derived.

It was not until nearly 100 years after the discovery of America that Europeans became acquainted with the tomato and even after they had known the plant for many years it was used mainly for ornamental purposes, the food value of the fruit being little suspected. Eventually tomatoes were cultivated by the Italians for good purposes and a number of plantations were developed on the shores of the Mediterranean. But even then many people were loath to eat the fruit because of the plant's relationship to the deadly nightshade.

To-day, the tomato has been shown by science to be a good source of minerals and those mysterious health-giving food factors, vitamins.

TAN TREATMENT.

In spite of all precautions for skin troubles some people will acquire a certain amount of tan even this weather and should this be unwelcome it may be treated with a paste made with magnesia, and rose-water, or distilled water will do. Apply the paste to the tanned parts, and after it has remained on for fifteen minutes wash it off with water, preferably rain water. If the water is hard then soften it with a little oatmeal or almond meal, which is tied up in a little bag and allowed to soak in the water. Dry the skin well and apply your cream and powder.

BETTER MILK FOR BABIES

helps Baby to develop a sound digestive system

By giving Baby every food element she needs in exactly the right forms and proportions, Lactogen—the dried milk food—encourages Baby's digestive system to develop normally.

Lactogen's fine flaky curds and extra-small fat globules bring nutriment gently to Baby's little digestive organs. Food for energy, food to make firm flesh—minerals to build sturdy, dense bone—vitamins to ensure health and growth—all this vital food goes quickly to work when Baby is put on Lactogen.

Lactogen is pure, fresh, full-cream milk, with extra cream and natural milk sugar added, made germ-free and then dried by Lactogen processes which preserve unchanged the valuable mineral and vitamin content of the fresh milk. Lactogen is thus made, in all important respects, exactly like breast milk. "Lactogen is the better milk for Baby," Doctors, Nurses and Mothers have found that out. So now the best advice is "Put Baby on Lactogen."

War Plane Flies In Pageant

Woman At Controls Of Famous Ship

MOLLISON TAKES PART

A galaxy of flying talent was seen at the Essex Aviation Display at Hillman's Aerodrome, Maylands, near Romford.

Among the noted women flyers who took part were Lady Bailey. She is the only woman to have flown solo to South Africa from England, and she flew the Puss Moth which the people of Johannesburg presented to her in admiration of her achievement.

Miss Winifred Brown, who won the King's Cup for the annual air race in 1930—the only woman who has won this coveted trophy—flew her machine, a Sports Avian.

Mrs. Victor Bruce flew an historic machine. This is an old wartime Bristol Fighter. Built in 1917, it was the pride of the old R.F.C., and it still has the same Rolls-Royce Falcon III. engine which proved a terror to the German air fighters. Mrs. Victor Bruce has to her credit the record of a flight to Japan after only forty hours' solo experience.

Miss F. Crossley, the daughter of Sir Kenneth Crossley, Bart., is another adventurous woman pilot who is to be seen in most air races. She brought her Comper monoplane, and took part in the air race.

Mrs. J. A. Mollison (Miss Amy Johnson), who flew to Australia in 1930, will show her newest racing aircraft, "Jason IV." This is a De Havilland Gipsy Moth, built specially for Captain Broad in the King's Cup race this year. It is a single-seater with special tanks for long-distance flying. That makes people wonder what this woman plans to attempt next.

The first woman in England to ascend in an airplane was Kathleen Countess of Drogheda, who was first taken up in 1900. Since then she has flown in many parts of the world and regularly attends flying meetings. She was present with her daughter, Lady Patricia Moore.

Mr. J. A. Mollison has his first appearance at a public aviation since his return from his Atlantic flight. He piloted the Puss Moth in which this year he broke the record for the flight to the Cape. He took the West Coast route and covered the 6,000 miles in 4 1/2 days.

Captain T. Neville Stack, A.F.C.—the first airman to fly a light airplane to India—took up a Spartan three-seater biplane. Captain Stack has flown five times to India. The last occasion was in June when, accompanied by Mr. William Courtenay, he flew the Spartan Mailplane from Blackpool to India in 5 1/2 days. They covered 10,000 miles in three weeks on the round trip.

Essex, however, has its own county hero in Mr. C. W. A. Scott, A.F.C., who has twice flown to Australia to win and re-win a coveted record. Mr. Scott first made a record to and from Australia in 1931, breaking Kingsford-Smith's time.

The same Gipsy Moth in which these achievements were made used in the Maylands display.

Faster types were represented by the American Lockheed Vega, a 200 mile per hour high wing monoplane, which holds six passengers. This is the type in which Miss Amelia Earhart flew the Atlantic. Lieutenant Cathcart-Jones, who accompanied the late Commander Glen Kidston to the Cape, handled this machine.

R.A.F. Demonstration.

The Royal Air Force, which, by permission of the Air Council, took part in the display, sent flight of three Bristol Bulldogs from Hornchurch. They showed off their paces in combined aerobatics. Fastest of all will be the Hawker "Fury" from Brooklands. Flight Lieutenant G. E. R. Sayer showed how this fighting machine can dive at more than 300 m.p.h. and fly at 240 m.p.h.

Another famous flyer was Flight Lieutenant J. Bentley, M.C., A.F.C., who flew solo to the Cape, married, and then flew back with his bride.

The West Country firm of Westland was represented by a Westland Wessex—a machine often used by the Prince of Wales on his journeys in Europe. The Wessex is a three-engined cabin type for four people. It was flown by Mr. H. A. Penrose and brought the Sheriffs from Heston to the display.

Flight-lieut. Comper, the young designer of the Comper Swift, and Mr. E. W. Percival, who has designed the "Gull," piloted their respective machines in the air race to Clacton from Romford. This race was for the Hillman Trophy and cash prizes, and more than a dozen machines took part.

A machine which excites much interest is the Cierva Autogiro—the invention of a Spanish designer. It was flown by Mr. R. A. C. Brie and took part in a novel wireless demonstration. The pilot received wireless messages from the ground. An official gave orders to the pilot and the public heard them through the loud speakers. In this way they learned how this strange "wind" machine really flies.

The programme included also parachute descents by Flight-lieutenant G. A. Hill.

EDUCATION EMBRACES BUILDING SCIENCE.

Board Announces Its New Curriculum.

The Board of Education has recently issued a pamphlet in which are set out the arrangements and conditions for the award of National Certificates and Diplomas in Building. The Institute of Builders, in conjunction with the Board, is prepared to approve schemes submitted by Technical Schools and Colleges in England and Wales, for the award of certificates and diplomas in general building technology. Certificates will be awarded in respect of part-time grouped courses and diplomas in respect of full-time grouped courses, conducted under approved conditions.

Part-time courses leading to "Ordinary Certificates" must extend over at least three years, the age of candidates at the commencement being 15 or 16. Advanced courses, leading to "Higher Certificates" must extend over a further two years at least. Similarly, full-time courses leading to "Ordinary Diplomas," and intended for students aged from 15 to 16, must normally extend over two years, a further three years being occupied in advanced full-time instruction leading to "Higher Diploma."

The pamphlet contains detailed instructions regarding courses, examinations, conditions of award of certificates and diplomas, and other matters connected with the scheme. It is obtainable, price 2d., net, from H. M. Stationery Office, Adastral House, Kingsway, London, W.C.2. Correspondence relating to matters arising out of the scheme should be addressed to the secretary of the Institute of Builders, 49, Bedford-square, London, W.C.1.—Engineering.

ELECTRICITY'S USES ON THE FARM.

Interesting Booklet Published.

The British Electrical Development Association, 15, Savoy-street, London, W.C.2, have issued a well-illustrated booklet describing the uses to which electricity can be put on general, poultry, and dairy farms. It has been the practice recently to demonstrate these applications at the various agricultural shows throughout the country, and the booklet should prove useful to those whose interest has thus been aroused and who wish to consolidate their knowledge. The information given is thoroughly practical and includes the actual cost of using electricity for pumping, grinding, chaff-cutting, threshing, sawing, shearing, milking, and various other purposes. The questions of lighting and of electricity as a labour-saver are also discussed. Copies of this pamphlet.

Of Jungle Land Machine Conquest

"Congorilla's" Producer Tells Of Trip.

More than 23,000 miles through the trackless wilds of the African jungles, without a major repair of any kind, is the latest achievement of a fleet of Willys-Overland cars and trucks, used by Mr. Martin Johnson, famous explorer and wild animal photographer. In his most recent safari into the jungles, which resulted in his filming of the great wild animal picture, "Congorilla," the noted explorer and his wife motor trucks to transport their equipment and members of the expedition to the haunts of the beasts.

"Our last safari through Kenya, Tanganyika, Abyssinia, Uganda and the Congo was probably the most strenuous ever undertaken by motor car. We travelled more than 23,000 miles and not once did our cars and trucks require any major repairs. I doubt if their performance could be equalled. We have one car that we have used in our African expeditions for the past ten years and it is still giving excellent service.

"Our two-ton trucks should have been labelled 'four-ton' for many times we packed from seven to eleven coloured boys on top of the load. At one time we took a crowd of pygmies on a ride through the Ituri forest in the Belgian Congo, and each car carried over 100 passengers. The cars were full and they were clinging to the top, sides and on the radiators," Mr. Johnson said.

PLEASING CONCERT AT PENINSULA.

The Symphonic Concert which featured at the Peninsula Hotel last Sunday provided listeners present, with a very enjoyable evening's entertainment.

The interesting instrumental compositions, mostly popular well-known favourites, which comprised the programme were much appreciated, and Mr. Rodolfsky was accorded well deserved applause for his excellently executed cello solo, "Cantilena," by Golttermann.

Public support given to these concert has been most gratifying, encouraging the continuance of these pleasant Sunday innovations which undoubtedly provide a pleasant two hours or so of music of a high standard.

RESOLVE TO GET WELL!

And no half measures about it! Resolve to get back your former vigour and happiness. You know it would be worth the effort. To get rid of that half-alive feeling, that physical weakness, that inability to concentrate on mental work; to be able to eat what you like without a qualm, to enjoy life as other people do around you.

Certainly it's worth it. And so little needed to achieve success—a steady course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Not a half-hearted one—for you cannot expect results in a day. But Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will surely and with certainty build up the blood which has become weak and scanty, replenishing your veins and organs with a new and invigorating supply of the vital, life-giving fluid.

Commence without delay. The sooner you start, the sooner you will be on the high-road to abundant health, vigour and happiness.

CINEMA NOTES

MAIL REVIEW

"THE WET PARADE"—QUEEN'S THEATRE.

The chaos, forid excitement and intense drama of modern times provides a sensational background for "The Wet Parade," of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's most important releases now showing at the Queen's Theatre.

The picture covers three periods in America, the pre-war era, the war years during which the prohibition enactment was passed and the modern period in which flagrant disregard of the law has given rise to innumerable dramatic conflicts and has resulted in such typically modern phenomena as racketeers, crime waves, political corruption, kidnapping rings, speak-easies and graft in hundreds of forms.

Dorothy Jordan does great work as the heroine and Robert Young, a newcomer to the screen, gives a fine portrayal. The film's outstanding character portrayals are in the hands of such experts as Lewis Stone, who plays the Southern aristocrat, and Walter Huston, as the ward politician.

The unusually strong cast also includes Neil Hamilton, Myrna Loy, Joan Marsh, John Miljan, Emma Dunn, Frederick Burton, Clarence Muse, Clara Blandick, Reginald Barlow, John Larkin, Gertrude Howard, Forrester Harvey and John Beck. The production was filmed under the direction of Victor Fleming.

"CHARLIE CHAN'S CHANCE"—KING'S THEATRE.

Charlie Chan, the famed Oriental detective, is revived on the screen of the King's Theatre, through the splendid medium of Warner Oland, in "Charlie Chan's Chance," the current attraction at the Theatre. Oland did good work in "Charlie Chan Carries On" and in his latest production, Oland carries all before him with his vocabulary of famous old proverbs.

In "Charlie Chan's Chance" Oland sets about to solve a murder mystery, in which Alexander Kirkland and Marian Nixon are involved. In solving the crime he brings the real criminal to justice by following what the New York Police and Scotland Yard sleuths regard as insignificant clues.

The climax is brought about after many exciting escapades. H. B. Warner, Linda Watkins, James Kirkwood and Ralph Morgan are in the supporting cast. Recommended!

"CARNIVAL"—CENTRAL THEATRE.

Herbert Wilcox's production, "Carnival," one of the most outstanding British pictures of the year is now showing at the Central Theatre.

Carnival time in Venice, there is romance, melody and song. The famous English player, Matheson Lang is starred in this picture and Dorothy Boucher and Joseph Schildkrant are excellent in their respective roles. Alfred Rode and his famous Tzigane orchestra are heard again in this film.

Lavishly produced and brilliantly acted, "Carnival" marks another milestone in the triumphant progress of the British motion picture industry.

Matheson Lang gives a grand performance as Silvio Steno, an Italian actor whose devotion to his foolish young wife nearly causes him to commit murder when provoked to a jealous rage, and Dorothy Boucher is both lovely and accomplished as the vain wife.

MAIL REVIEW

"THE YELLOW TICKET"—ORIENTAL THEATRE.

Raoul Walsh's production "The Yellow Ticket," depicting the adventures of a beautiful and virtuous peasant girl, is now playing at the Oriental Theatre.

Elissa Landi portrays the leading feminine role, with Lionel Barrymore and Laurence Olivier, in principal parts. Other in the cast are Walter Byron, Rita La Roy, and Sarah Padden.

"The Yellow Ticket" reveals a true and dramatic picture of the days of barbaric splendour in Russia an uncoloured etching of the most autocratic period in modern history.

GALA NIGHT AT REPULSE BAY.

Many Guests Enjoy Entertainment.

The Gala Night at the Repulse Bay Hotel on Guy Fawkes' Day, Saturday, was a very enjoyable affair for the large number of diners participating.

An exceptional attraction was the clever performances of "The Joy Fun Toy Company," reputedly China's foremost troupe of acrobats and jugglers, who delighted and thrilled the audience.

Excellent dance music was also given by the Hong Kong Hotel's new dance orchestra, "The Revelers."

Amongst those present at the Gala Night were:—

Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster, K.C., O.B.E., His Honour Sir J. H. Kemp, Kt., C.B.E., Capt. G. E. Mirehouse, Col. L. G. Bird and Party, Capt. Stewart and Party, Col. C. N. The Bible Society.

For the hundred and twenty-eighth time the annual report of the British and Foreign Bible Society makes its appearance. Though there have been years when the Society has sold more volumes, such falling off in its sales as there has been is amply explained by the general impoverishment which prevails in many parts of the world. Cheaply as the Society sells its wares, it rightly prefers to sell rather than to give, except for special reasons; and unhappily its agents in not a few fields have come across victims of poverty, persecution and exile to whom even the cheapest book is an unattainable luxury. "There is no evidence," says the report, "that people are less ready to acquire the Scriptures," though in one vast area—that of Soviet Russia—their import, their printing, and even their reading are still forbidden. In these circumstances to have distributed more than ten and a half million volumes must be accounted good work. Moreover versions in eleven fresh languages have been launched, thus bringing the total number of languages into which the Bible in whole or in part has been translated up to 655. According to its custom, the Society issues two reports—the report proper, and the more popular version, which as it happens this time is the last of ten to be written by the present Literary Superintendent, the Rev. E. W.

Smith. Mr. Smith gives rather a broader survey of the Society's work than usual. Looking back on its long experience, he points to a change which is coming over mankind; it is growing more literate, though of course there are still many parts where illiteracy prevails. If the illiterate have ears and not eyes, it is the other way round in some of the more civilized countries, where prejudice against the evangelist's voice "suffers the printed word alone to be forerunner, as in Islam. The Society finds that there is among the Moslems a response to the printed page as to no other agency; so that the entrance to this city of Mansoul, in Bunyan's phrase, is more likely to be gained by means of Eyegate than through Eargate. In lands where missionaries enjoy freedom, even if their post carries danger with it, both gates are open; in China and the Far East, for instance, there is an immense reading public. That the Society's books find their billet in the strangest places, alike in geography and in the human heart, can come as no surprise. The books speak a universal language, as no others speak, difficult though it has often been to translate that language from the original idiom into another. While it may well be that no books suffer less from translation than the Gospels, it has been the Society's lot, in the course of its philological labours, to meet with tribes whose vocabulary is meagre in the extreme. That, for example, of the Eskimos relates mainly to fishing and the weather; a widely spoken African tongue has apparently no word for the sea; and, where the structure and ethos of a complicated speech demand years of patient study, the difficulty may be to find not words but the exact shade of expression which alone will serve a particular purpose. But all the time knowledge tends to become more and more obtainable. What could be accomplished by the Society's linguists a century ago is much less than what its scholars can achieve to-day, tentative as even some of their latest versions must be, and suspicious still as not a few peoples are of the Society's literature. That all too many parts of the world are in no happy state to-day is borne out by the various regional reports of the Society's agents; but, according to the reading of the human temperature which the Society is peculiarly enabled to take, the message which the Scriptures alone bring to man has been superseded by no other. That organized "Godlessness," runs counter to instincts too deep to allow it to be really daunting is confirmed by the Society's past history and present experience.

HERE. THERE and EVERYWHERE.

A Cincinnati Fisher.
One of the best of shooting and fishing stories produced by the present Scottish season concerns a Cincinnati magnate who has been the guest of a peer in Inverness-shire.

Not being a shot he was sent out salmonfishing. In order to ensure success the head gillie was sent with him. The day was warm, and after a strenuous hour of preliminary instruction the gillie sat down on the bank to leave the novice to his own devices.

His respite was short-lived. Interruption came swiftly in the form of a harsh appeal from the angler: "Say, shepherd, give me a hand. Some shark's sucked the bug off the end of my string."

Posers in Welsh.

Welsh, which a short time ago was introduced as an optional subject into examinations for Government appointments, does not seem to be popular with examinees. Out of 977 candidates who attended the recent examination of executive appointments in the Civil Service, only eight chose Welsh as a subject.

Three hundred and two of those entrants were women, not one of whom selected Welsh.

Candidates were invited to write 200 words of Welsh on one of the following subjects: (a) Cynildde; (b) Araith disgyl with ymadael; (c) Gwerth hanes. Candidly, one should have been baffled. One may be permitted to wonder why Welsh was included in the examination at all, for one is informed that not one of the successful candidates for these higher appointments will be employed in Wales.

Royal Bride's Ring.

One of the smallest wedding rings ever manufactured, informs me, was worn by Princess Sibylla when she married Prince Gustav Adolf in Coburg on October 20.

The ring measures only 15½ millimetres; the average size, is between 17½ and 18 millimetres.

It is of Swedish gold, and was washed from the river beds in the Duchy of Vasterbotten, of which the bridegroom is Duke.

An angler fishing off Deal pier caught a fish which he estimated at 18 lbs. When weighed it proved to be 26 lbs. A man who can under-estimate like that may catch fish, but he'll never make a fisherman.

Control Of Capital World Need Old System Sound Despite Faults

HARVARD MAN'S VIEWS

Increased social organisation of America's industry on lines somewhere between extremes of more than 50 plans now before the country, is foreseen by Prof. Edwin F. Gray of Harvard University, writes R. H. Sharp in the Christian Science Monitor.

"A great social force with dynamic possibilities is before us," the economic historian told his round table on planning at the Institute of Politics, here. In dealing with this force, Professor Gray believes there are practical limits within which control may be applied with beneficial results.

At the outset, he discards all proposals, starting with an assumption that the capitalist—or as he prefers to put it, the competitive—system, has broken down. That system is still dominant, he contends. It needs further adjustment and more social control, but is still fundamentally sound, in his opinion.

Professor Gray also denies that individualistic competition has resulted in "capitalistic chaos." It is a mistake to assert that "capitalism is fundamentally unsystematic," he adds. Planning and "scientific management" have grown up within industry itself. To be sure, growth has been piecemeal and irregular. But now, "by reason of its own inner logic of development," the system is "needing and seeking correlation."

Proposals to this end, put forward by business men, legislators, and scholars, hold great promise but face immense difficulties in application, Professor Gray told a group including economists from several nations.

A difficulty common to all national plans is the enigma of fitting them into a world at present without economic unity, the economists agreed.

Dr. Luigi Villari of Rome noted that the Italian system of governmental decision on points disputed between branches of industry, is succeeding to a large degree. Several similar plans have been outlined for America. Such a system, however, draws its vitality from political uniformity, he said, such as that provided by the Fascist dictatorship.

Prof. Herbert von Beckerath of Bonn University, Germany, attributed "complete failure" of social brakes on industry in the Reich, to lack of political consistency.

This question of political ground-work for any social regulation of industry was described by Professor Gray as one of two main issues underlying the practical side of all plans. However attractive a proposal may be, it cannot succeed, in his opinion, without surmounting such stubborn obstacles as the "tariff lobby" in Washington, or "boom psychology" such as swept the automobile industry into over-expansion in 1927.

Need for World Planning.

The other main issue—Professor Gray finds all plans tending to raise it—is the need for world planning to aid national planning. "Since world planning is in less prospect of being realized first," he holds, each nation can profitably put its own house in order. But at many points, he comments, national planning is necessarily handicapped, because efforts to control domestic production, consumption, prices and so on must face the impact of world forces.

Current American interest in industrial planning is traced by Professor Gray to something more fundamental than the pressure of trade recession. Such pressure always intensifies interest in means to prevent future declines, but the movement toward planning has been growing steadily for decades.

This movement manifests itself in two broad types of approach. One school urges the need for more adequate information, made available through trade associations or the Government. In Professor Gray's opinion, such proposals lead to the question of compulsion. Assuming that full and frank publication of corporation accounts could be achieved—as in the case with railroads—how, he asks, "could competing interests be compelled to take action in line with the public good?"

Seek Government Control.

The other school seizes this query at the outset and insists upon governmental control. Some proposals advocate similar powers to be conferred upon central bodies set up within industry.

An example of the informational type was cited as the La Follette bill, which calls for a national economic council of nine members to serve in a purely advisory capacity.

The Swope Plan was employed to sum up efforts to organize individual industries for control of production and consumption. A wiser scheme within industry, Professor Gray pointed out, is included in the plan advanced by Mr. H. I. Harriman of Boston for the United States Chamber of Commerce, calling for formation of a national economic council and subordinate trade councils. These councils would reach agreements that must be filed with a public body.

A difficulty inherent in these plans for self-regulation by industry is that the traditional policy of trade associations is to keep prices up in times of stress, Professor Gray said. This policy is carried out through restricting output.

Should Improve Living.

But the goal of social planning should be a constantly rising standard of living, which means development of production and making its fruits available to wider numbers, he added.

It is in this direction that Professor Gray looks for the most constructive outcome of current efforts toward planning. He commended findings of Mr. Lewis L. Lorwin of the Brookings Institution.

Mr. Lorwin favours "social progressive planning." This would work toward a national economy embracing coordinated units and giving maximum benefits to the masses by increase of real wages and development of orderly production.

CONSULAR INVOICES REQUIRED.

On Goods Shipped From Manchuria.

We are informed by the Hong Kong General Chamber of Commerce that notification has been received from the Commissioner of Chinese Customs, Kowloon, to the effect that as long as the Customs Houses at the various Manchurian ports remain closed, all foreign goods shipped from Manchuria to other ports in China, must be covered by Consular Invoices.

Custom Houses at Harbin, Newchwang, Antung, Lungching-tsun, Aigun, Shenyang (Mukden), and Dairen are those closed until further notice.

Replying to a further question in the debate on unemployment, Major Elliott announced that the River Plate importers had agreed to cut by 20 per cent. their supplies of mutton and lamb, and by ten per cent. their chilled beef, for a few weeks, and if prices unimproved they would cut lower.

Australian and New Zealand representatives were anxious to co-operate. They were communicating with their Governments forthwith. Major Elliott believed there would be a reduction of shipments of mutton and lamb by 10 per cent. at least in the next two months which would create an entirely new situation for British livestock.

The debate will conclude tomorrow. — Reuter.

Premier Hopeful.

London, To-day. In the House of Commons the Prime Minister made a contribution to the three days' debate on unemployment in which all parties are pooling their ideas in a common search for remedies. Mr. MacDonald urged they must concentrate upon stimulation of trade in order to create a national demand for labour. The whole of the economic possibilities must be surveyed and information applied with a view to absorbing labour.

The real trouble in Britain was that it was part of the world struck by the economic blizzard. Until that was over, until the markets of the world had been opened and production of the world had been regularised, unemployment, which was fundamentally an international problem, must remain.

He placed great reliance and great hopes on the International Economic Conference, to which at Lausanne had been a necessary introduction. There was very little hope of a really healthy and natural trade until accommodations were reached for the exchange of goods. Until that was done there could be no return of prosperity to any European state.

He was convinced the land must play a greater part than it had hitherto done in schemes for assisting unemployment problem. The Government were now devising ways in which to assist agriculture, but that industry must prove that it was using the tariffs to advance its efficiency in marketing and in other directions. The Government was also in contact with expert advisers to find out how to promote and what effect could be given to such schemes as hydrogenation, housing and slum clearance.

Mr. Lloyd George strongly advocated development of a small-holdings scheme which employed a large amount of labour and provided training for agricultural employment. At least 1,000,000 workers should be placed actually on the soil or in ancillary occupations. — British Wireless Service.

CHINESE MEMORIAL CEREMONY.

Arrangements For Armistice Day.

The following arrangements for the Armistice Day Ceremony to be conducted at the Chinese Memorial Arch, Botanical Gardens, on Friday next, have been issued:—

His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government with His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, the O.C., Troops, Hong Kong Area, and the Senior Royal Air Force Officer will be met at the foot of the Botanic Garden steps by the Chinese Members of Council, who will escort them up the steps to the Memorial.

The Last Post will be sounded by Military Buglers. Then there will be a short pause followed by Reveille.

H.E. the O.A.G. will then lay a wreath followed by H.E. the C-in-C, the O.C., Troops, Hong Kong Area and the Senior Royal Air Force Officer.

Chinese Members of Council will then lay a wreath followed by Chinese Representatives on the Sanitary Board, Senior Members of the District Watch Committee, Chairman of the Tung Wah Hospital, Chairman of the Po Leung Kuk, and the Chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce.

Wreaths will then be laid by others who desire to do so. Other Members of the Executive and Legislative Councils have also been invited to take their places beside the Memorial Arch.

The Last Post and Reveille will be blown by buglers of the South Wales Borderers, and a body of Chinese from the Chinese portion of the 40th Company Royal Engineers will parade under a British Officer.

The steps leading up to the Memorial Arch will be lined by special Police Reserves, and a detachment of District Watchmen will parade under Inspector Shaftain.

CHINESE KILLED BY EUROPEAN'S CAR.

Mr. G. G. Wood Driving When Youth Struck.

Mr. G. G. Wood, of Messrs. Leigh and Orange, architects, was involved in a fatal motor accident in Kowloon last night.

According to a Police report, he was driving his car in Nathan Road at 8.45 p.m., when near the junction of Dundas Street, he knocked down a Chinese youth, Pan Ching, 16, of 452 Shanghai.

The youth sustained injuries to his head, arms and legs, from which he succumbed at midnight in the Kowloon Hospital.

THE MURMI CASE.

[To the Editor, "China Mail"]

Sir,—I am somewhat surprised to find in the Foreign Press such a meagre account of the "Murmi" assault case now before the Court, the details of which, however, have been fully reported in the Vernacular Papers, and which have aroused considerable indignation among the Chinese.

I was always of the opinion that the function of a newspaper was to give matters of public interest, wide publicity and the absence of any but the merest account of the case in question is disappointing.

RIOT IN CAFE WHEN SAILOR CHASES GUESTS

American Charged After Disorder.

COMPANION ESCAPED.

The story of a disturbance in a Wanchai restaurant last night, in which a young American sailor and a European civilian were involved, was related in the Central Police Court this morning, when before Mr. Schofield, Joseph Elmer Kaiel, a fireman of the U.S.S. Pope of the Asiatic Fleet was charged with having behaved in a riotous and disorderly manner.

Kaiel, who was on bail of £50, pleaded guilty to the charge.

Outlining the case, Detective-Sub-Inspector Rozesky said that at 9.15 p.m. last night, the defendant in company with a European civilian went to Mr. Kato's restaurant at 90 Johnston Road. They kicked at the door. Mr. Kato let them in, and on entering, Kaiel began to create trouble. Becoming afraid, the proprietor went to Wanchai Police Station where he reported the matter. During his absence, the defendant, it was stated, picked up a wooden bar and began to chase the inmates of the premises around the restaurant. In doing so he broke a chair and damaged several cuspidors.

When Police arrived on the scene, Kaiel attempted to get away but was arrested by Sergeant Williamson in the back lane. The European civilian made his escape.

His Worship (to defendant)—Do you wish to say anything?

Kaiel—No, Sir.
His Worship imposed a fine of $25, and ordered the defendant to pay $15 as compensation for the damage done.

WINTER EQUIPMENT FOR SOLDIERS.

Army Blankets Sent For Swatow Unit.

A large consignment of army blankets, destined for the 12th Battalion, 7th Division, arrived here on the s.s. Fatahan from Canton yesterday, and is now awaiting transshipment to Swatow.

The approach of the winter weather is being felt by the military forces there, and Mr. Tse Pak-ying was sent to Canton to purchase the necessary winter equipment.

GUN CARRIER SENT TO PRISON.

Gave Fictitious Name Of Guarantor.

Remanded from yesterday to seek a guarantor and evidence of character, a Shanghai Chinese man charged with the possession of a loaded automatic revolver at 22 Pokfulam Road, appeared again before Mr. Kennedy-Skipiton in the Central Police Court this morning.

Police stated that the defendant had named a man who did not exist as a guarantor.

PARKER ADDERSON, PHILOSOPHER

By Ambrose Bierce.

"PRISONER, what is your name?"

"As I am to lose it at day-light to-morrow morning, it is hardly worth concealing. Parker Adderson."

"As somewhat humble one; commissioned officers are too precious to be risked in the perilous business of a spy. I am a sergeant."

"Of what regiment?"

"You must excuse me; if I answered that it might, for anything I know, give you an idea of whose forces are in your front. Such knowledge as that is what I came into your lines to obtain, not to impart."

"You are not without wit."

"If you have the patience to wait, you will find me dull enough to-morrow."

"How do you know that you are to die to-morrow morning?"

"Among spies captured by night that is the custom. It is one of the nice observances of the profession."

The general so far laid aside the dignity appropriate to a Confederate officer of high rank and wide renown as to smile. But no one in his power and out of his favour would have drawn any happy augury from that outward and visible sign of approval. It was neither genial nor infectious; it did not communicate itself to the other persons exposed to it—the caught armed guard who had brought him the spy who had provoked it and the armed guard who had brought him into the tent and now stood a little apart, watching his prisoner in the yellow candle-light. It was no part of that warrior's duty to smile; he had been detailed for another purpose. The conversation was resumed; it was, in fact, a trial for a capital offence.

"You admit, then, that you are a spy—that you came into my camp disguised as you are, in the uniform of a Confederate soldier, to obtain information secretly regarding the numbers and disposition of my troops?"

"Regarding, particularly, their numbers. Their disposition I already knew. It is morose."

The general brightened again; the guard, with a severer sense of his responsibility, accentuated the austerity of his expression and stood a trifle more erect than before. Twirling his grey slouch hat round and round upon his forefinger, the spy took a leisurely survey of his surroundings.

He called attention to the result of depreciated currency in Japan, which as a result is able to under sell American products in the American market, despite the high tariff boundaries.

The sale of Japanese fish products in the United States, he said, has resulted in the gravest period in the history of the American fishing industries.

Mrs. Roosevelt Backs Hoover.

New York, Nov. 1. The widow of President Theodore Roosevelt surprised last night's audience in Madison Square Garden with a speech in behalf of President Hoover.

A roar of welcome greeted her as she faced the throng, which stood as she crossed the platform. The cheering continued and Mrs. Hoover, beside her on the platform, applauded with the crowd.

Mrs. Roosevelt, 71 years old, stood calmly smiling. At least, lifting her hand for silence, she spoke in a clear though not strong voice.

"I am a real New Yorker and it is fitting and right that I should welcome the President of the United States into the city where I spent my childhood and early youth," she said. "I greet him with affection and admiration."

roundings. They were simple enough. The tent was a common "wall tent," about eight feet by ten in dimensions, lighted by a single tallow-candle stuck into the haft of a bayonet, which was itself stuck into a pine-table, at which the general sat, now busily writing and apparently forgetful of his unwilling guest. An old ragcarpet covered the earthen floor; an older hair-trunk, a second chair, and a roll of blankets were about all else that the tent contained; in General Claverling's command, Confederate simplicity and penury of "pomp and circumstance" had attained their highest development. On a large nail driven into the tent-pole at the entrance was suspended a sword-belt supporting a long sabre, a pistol in its holster, and, absurdly enough, a bowie knife. Of that most un-military weapon it was the general's habit to explain that it was a cherished souvenir of the peaceful days when he was a civilian.

It was a stormy night. The rain cascaded upon the canvas in torrents, with the dull, drum-like sound familiar to dwellers in tents. As the whooping blasts charged upon it the frail structure shook and away and strained at its confining stakes and ropes.

The general finished writing, folded the half sheet of paper, and spoke to the soldier guarding Adderson: "Here, Tassman, take that to the adjutant-general; then return."

"And the prisoner, general?" said the soldier, saluting, with an inquiring glance in the direction of that unfortunate.

"Do as I said," replied the officer, curtly.

The soldier took the note and ducked himself out of the tent. General Claverling turned his handsome, clean-cut face toward the Federal spy, looked him in the eyes, not unkindly, and said: "It is a bad night, my man."

"For me, yes."

"Do you guess what I have written?"

"Something worth reading, I dare say. And—perhaps it is my vanity—I venture to suppose that I am mentioned in it."

"Yes; it is a memorandum for an order to be read to the troops at reveille concerning your execution. Also some notes for the guidance of the provost-marshal in arranging the details of that event."

"I hope, general, the spectacle will be intelligently arranged, for I shall attend it myself."

"Have you any arrangements of your own that you wish to make? Do you wish to see a chaplain, for example?"

"I could hardly secure a longer rest for myself by depriving him of his."

"Good God, man! do you mean to go to your death with nothing but jokes upon your lips? Do you not know that this is a serious matter?"

"How can I know that? I have never been dead in all my life. I have heard that death is a serious matter, but never from any of those who have experienced it."

The general was silent for a moment; the man interested, perhaps amused, him—a type not previously encountered.

"Death," he said, "is at least a loss—a loss of such happiness as we have, and of opportunities for more."

"A loss of which we will never be conscious can be borne with composure and therefore expected without apprehension. You must have observed, general, that of all the dead men with whom it is your soldierly pleasure to strew your path, none show signs of regret."

"If the being dead is not a regrettable condition, yet the becoming so—the act of dying—appears to be distinctly disagreeable in one who has not lost the power to feel."

"Pain is disagreeable, no doubt. I never suffer it without more or less discomfort. But he who lives longest is most exposed to it. What you call dying is simply the last pain—there is really no such thing as dying. Suppose, for illustration, that I attempt to escape. You lift the revolver that you are courteously concealing in your lap, and—"

SWIMMING ACTIVITIES IN "Y" BATH

THE Y.M.C.A. water-polo team were once again triumphant when they defeated H.M.S. Olympus 9-1 in the Y.M.C.A. bath yesterday afternoon.

The winners were all over the Navy men and were pressing throughout.

Shreuder once again was in the limelight with four goals to his credit, closely followed by Campbell who netted on three occasions. Campbell, incidentally, played a fine game at centre half but was lucky on two occasions when he managed to swim away from his man and score; had the Navy keeper stopped any of his shots, a different aspect might have been put on the final standing.

Goldman, who again played on the left wing, was inclined to wander but he did this mainly to cover Campbell's attacks.

Groves was the best man for the Navy, scoring well in the first half with a bouncing ball.

Mr. J. E. Wilson lined up the following teams:—

H.M.S. Olympus: Jones, O'Hara and King; Groves; Ford, Barber and Newton.

Y.M.C.A.: Sutherland; Jenner and Maynard; Campbell; Aris, Shreuder and R. Goldman.

The goal scorers were Shreuder (4), Campbell (3), R. Goldman and Aris (1 each) for the winners and Groves (1) for H.M.S. Olympus.

H.M.S. BRUCE defeated a team from the U.S.S. Black Hawk at water polo yesterday evening at the Y.M.C.A. Pool by one goal to nil.

The game was the most amusing I have ever seen and kept the spectators in raptures of mirth throughout.

The men from the Black Hawk were unused to the English game of water polo and were invariably pulled up for infringements; one of the men got so indignant that he stood in the shallow end with his hands on his hips glaring at the referee who, himself, was in splits of laughter at the antics of the Americans.

H.M.S. Bruce opened the scoring in the first half and kept it to the end.

After the game, I approached one of the American men and asked him the reason for the inability of the men from the Black Hawk to play the regulation game. He replied that they had all been used to the American game which allowed for swimming under the water with the ball and doing all and everything you wanted with it, providing the opposing side did not object. He also said that in the States they were used to a very much smaller rubber ball which one could sling at the goalkeeper—and possibly put him out of the game for the rest of the period.

TO-NIGHT in the Y.M.C.A. bath the U.S.S. Black Hawk will be competing against H.M.S. Medway in three swimming events, a diving contest, if the Royal Navy can provide opposition in this event, and a water-polo game. The latter event should prove worth while watching as a result of yesterday's exhibition.

AMERICANS CAUSE GREAT AMUSEMENT

To-day's Inter-Naval Encounter.

"Y" POLO TEAM TO BE STRENGTHENED.

(By Crawl.)

The Medway, I believe have a useful water-polo side, but if the Black Hawk play anything like they did in yesterday's game against H.M.S. Bruce the British side should win easily.

I was watching the Black Hawk divers at work yesterday. They brought off some very spectacular dives, and one of the men displayed excellent form. The event should certainly prove an attraction.

The polo game will be amusing, the Americans not being used to the regulation game. A good referee is essential for the game; yesterday's game was almost uncontrollable.

THE water-polo game between the Chinese Athletic and the Y.M.C.A. which was played on Sunday afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. bath, produced some sparkling play. A feature of the game was the excellent display of W. Schreuder who scored six out of a total of seven goals. His accuracy was of the best, and he found the net with almost all his efforts. His size and strength proved a handicap to the Chinese defence who could not cope with him.

BOTH wings put in much hard work, although E. Raiton who played on the right wing often let his man get away. Goldman on the other wing was also at fault in playing the ball in the shallow end while standing.

This fault seemed very common, the Chinese forwards invariably being pulled up for this, and as a consequence lost many a scoring opportunity.

This infringement, to most people would seem to be easy to rectify, but where the average man is round about 5 feet 8 ins. and the water only 3½ feet deep, it makes swimming exceedingly difficult.

THE game was well refereed, and I was featured by one of the worst infringements, that of drifting, of which there was much.

The Chinese team although faster in some respects than that of the Y.M.C.A., could make little headway in their attacks, their forwards being too slow and their shooting weak.

THE Y.M.C.A. are getting together a very strong team, and look like becoming the best in the Colony. They have yet to play the V.R.C. but with three new additions to the team in W. Schreuder, R. Goldman and M. L. Raiton should be a formidable team, in the face of which the V.R.C. will be fully extended.

I understand that three new men who are likely to fill places in the Y.M.C.A. team are M. L. Raiton, an elder brother of the present captain, who will most likely fill one of the wing positions; J. E. Henry who will be a permanent back; and L. Goldman who may fill the goal-keeping position.

THESE three men have had a vast amount of experience at water-polo. Raiton has played in the forward line and is an exceedingly fast man with a powerful throw. Henry has played for Shanghai in Interports. He also played for Singapore in their memorable game against the Singapore Chinese Swimming Club, when they defeated the latter for the first time in 12½ years. Henry also featured in many a game against the Military in Singapore, and his game will go down in Swimming Club history for his wonderful effort when he swam through the entire Gloucester first team to score an equalising goal in the last minute.

"Lolly" Goldman has, also, considerable water-polo experience, having played in goal for the famous "Tadpoles" of the Shanghai Rowing Club team, and his vast experience should prove a helping factor in the Y.M.C.A. defence. He is due back in the Colony early next month.

SCHREUDER, a newcomer to local water-polo is perhaps one of the finest centre forwards in the colony and should have no difficulty in securing a place in the next interport team should there be one.

His control and handling of the ball comes up to Olympic standard, and I believe that he has played in Dutch Olympic Trials.

He is a difficult man to watch and should prove a valuable man in the Y.M.C.A. team, which this year is of exceptional strength.

YESTERDAY'S water-polo game against H.M.S. Olympus brought out all the talent displayed by the Y.M.C.A. team, particularly in Campbell who scored two excellent goals.

Campbell although fast, has much to learn before he can fill the pivot position. His game yesterday demonstrated that he can show a burst of speed whenever he desires, but his big fault lies in breaking away and coming up to score. A centre-half's job is to watch the opposing side's centre forward and to feed his forwards, but on no account is he to leave his man unless he is at his wit's end to decide what to do with the ball, then, and only then, may he break away, but he must immediately return and cover his man.

Campbell was a trifle lucky yesterday, had the game been against one of the better teams, it might have taken a different aspect and the scores would have been reversed.

FAREWELL DINNER TO INSTRUCTOR.

Anzac Company Loses
Sergt. Gibbens.

The Anzac Company of the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps said good-bye to its instructor Sergt. W. Gibbens at a dinner at Volunteer Headquarters last night.

Lieut. C. de S. Robertson presided. He paid tribute to the tactful and efficient manner with which Sergt. Gibbens had dealt with the men. To him alone was due the present efficiency of the company.

Lieut. Robertson presented Sergt. Gibbens with a gold cigarette case, mounted with the company's badge—kiwi and boomerang. Inside the case the names of members of the company, were engraved.

Sergt. Gibbens suitably responded.

Nanking, Oct. 30.

According to statistics compiled by the Chinese Students' Federation, 1,256 Chinese students are at present studying in 140 colleges and universities in America. Of these, 1,108 are men and 148 women.

The subjects of study chosen by these students include almost every branch of science and art. Among the most popular studies are education, economics, business administration, engineering and political science. It is interesting to note that one student chose to specialise in Latin, another in modern dramatics, and still another in the Slavonic languages. Five are studying military science.—Kuo Min.

AIR SERVICE FOR HANKOW.

Through air mail traffic between Hankow and Sian will be inaugurated shortly under agreement between the China National Aviation and Eurasia Aviation Corporations.

With the present Nanking-Hankow and Nanking-Sian services in operation, mails destined for Sian from Hankow or vice versa will be sent via Nanking, delivery being made two days after posting of the letter. The through traffic agreement is effective also for immediate points on the two airways.—Kuo Min.

POLICE AND PHOENIX DRAW.

In a Mamak Tournament hockey match played on the U.S.R.C. ground yesterday afternoon H.M.S. Veteran improved their position when they defeated the 24th Battery R.A. by 2 goals to nil, both goals being netted in the first half through Rimmer and Hill.

The Battery defence brightened considerably in the second half, Carter working hard. Lt. Garthwaite, at inside right, made his debut in the R.A. team, and with Lewis, were leading lights. Carver played a forcing game at back for the Veteran.

GREAT POLICE RECOVERY.

A fast Mamak match was witnessed at Caroline Hill yesterday afternoon when the Police played H.M.S. Phoenix to a drawn game of 1-1.

At half time the score was 1-1, and up to ten minutes from the end, the Phoenix led by 3 goals to one.

Perkins, Harris and Kartar Singh netted for the Police, while the Phoenix obtained their points through Barnett (2) and Prior.

GROVES INJURED.

During a match between the 7th Platoon and the 5th Platoon of the South Wales Borderers, at Sookun-poo yesterday afternoon, Lance Corporal Groves sustained an injury to his head which necessitated treatment at the French Hospital before he could resume in the game. The 7th Platoon won by 2 clear goals.

MANY FEATURES AT DINNER DANCE.

Benevolent Society's Coming Affair.

Every effort is being made to bring about a successful night at the Peninsula Hotel next Saturday, November 12, when under the distinguished patronage of Mrs. W. T. Southorn, and conjointly with the Peninsula Hotel management, the New Territories Medical Benevolent Society, have arranged for the fancy dress dinner dance to take place in the attractive Rose Room and Roof Garden.

The object is a particular effort to raise funds for the promotion of the Society's medical activities in the New Territories. It is a well-deserving project and should meet with hearty support.

The function extends from 8.30 p.m. till 2 a.m. and no effort has been spared to make it interesting and enjoyable.

A special entertainment is to follow the dinner, when at intervals special features will be presented. Mrs. R. Ferrolo, a charming vocalist, will render songs, Mrs. H. Mein, an accomplished and delightful exponent of classical dances will give displays of this attractive art, and the well-known and popular cabaret dancers "Hugo" and "Josephine" will provide exhibitions of ball room steps.

Table reservations may be effected at both the Hogg Kong Hotel and Peninsula Hotel, and Dr. F. I. Tsung, Honorary Secretary and Treasurer of the Society, will take care of arrangements regarding bookings for Chinese patrons.

ACCUSED ADMITS "NECKING."

Swiss Denies Charge
Of Assault.

The prosecution yesterday afternoon closed its case against Henry Urmi, Swiss a motor-engineer who is charged with indecently assaulting Chung Wan, a 20-year-old girl. The hearing was resumed before Mr. Schofield.

Det. Inspector W. Shannon stated that on the night in question he received a report from Inspector Stimson, of Shaokwan, following which he took the girl in a Police car to Henry's Auto Service garage, at 447-457, Lockhart Road.

As they approached the garage, the girl pointed excitedly to a European and said, "That's her that's he."

Urmi, who came forward at this moment, was then told of the charge against him. He denied it and said: "This is blackmail. I admit 'necking'."

Inspector Shannon: I asked him what he meant by "necking," and he said, "You know, making love." Mr. Schofield asked to-morrow afternoon for the opening of the defence by Mr. W. A. Mackinlay.

RUGBY CLUB BADLY HANDICAPPED

SIX PLAYERS ON INJURED LIST TO DATE

Navy Should Prove Dominant.

BONNAR VICE-CAPTAIN IN SINGAPORE.

Massey Refereeing.

(By "SCRUM HALF.")

THE Club have been most unfortunate this season as regards injuries. On Saturday they fielded a weak fifteen without their captain and scrum half, J. A. R. Selby, their prospective full back, L. G. Robertson, their interport centre-three-quarter, A. F. Jenkins, and two interport forwards in J. H. McElney and F. R. Burch, and then encountered a further setback when W. E. Peers was taken off the field against the Navy with an ankle injury. From what I understand Peers will be out of action for at least two months. His ankle was weak before the game on Saturday and a bad twist did not improve matters any.

THE standard of play this year is not up to the standard of last year; the Navy are not such a formidable combination; the Club are considerably weaker; and the Army seem to be the only team which has made progress. The Navy should, with the return of Lt. Ryder, run away with the Triangular Tournament series, but the Club will again start favourites for the Seven-A-Side Tournament. For a first appearance as a team the Navy were quite impressive on Saturday, only the bad bunching of their three-quarters being responsible for a score of only 12 points. Their scrum is, however, not as good as the eight Lt. Comdr. Crick last season, but they have weight and only need several practice games to form a good combination. In the loose they are very formidable with Lt. Hubback standing head and shoulders above the others.

LT. Armitage the Navy possess a very valuable key to their attack, though I feel sure he had an off day on Saturday. He was very selfish at times, and his handling was not too impressive, though his touch-kicking in defence was most laudable. He, however, showed signs of exceptional promise, and, once he settles down to conditions here, he should prove to be the live-wire in the naval side. He passed M. W. Turner with ease, and was all too seldom tackled by that player. Of the other backs I was impressed by the initiative of Stoker Packer, though his handling was far from perfect. He knew when to loose the ball, and only a tendency to run across his three quarters, instead of going straight ahead, robbed him of several spectacular openings. Both wing three-quarters were very fast and knew their positions perfectly. I liked the way Barnes took his passes; he seemed more confident than Rothwell, though the latter scored two of the three tries.

LT. Buckley at full back was a model of coolness, even under the heaviest of pressure. His touch-kicking was well-judged and always gained considerable ground, while his handling was beyond reproach. It would take a good man to pass Buckley while in possession; a sale of the dummy would not be good enough.

W. H. B. Rigg could hardly be blamed for all the three occasions upon which the Club line fell. He was badly out of position when Rothwell scored his second try and failed to catch him before he had reached the line by the corner flag. Had he been a fraction of a yard nearer to his proper position, he could not have helped bundling Rothwell into touch. The other occasion that he was at fault was when Barnes broke through and side-stopped him. He went low, but Barnes was able to shake him off to score a good try.

RIGG, however, saved a certain try when Rothwell broke away when he brought off a brilliant

The Club and Navy fifteens photographed before their game at the Valley on Saturday, which the Navy won by 12 points to nil.—(Ying Ming.)

liant tackle only five yards from the line.

Rigg is a trifle on the slow side for a full back, though he possesses a fairly safe pair of hands when he does not allow the ball to bounce, and his kick is a powerful one.

LT. LINTON led the Navy forwards well in the tight scrums and the line-outs, but he is a little on the slow side to achieve individual brilliance in the loose, though he is up with the ball in every raid.

LT. Hubback was the outstanding naval player, his speed at wing forward proving a tremendous handicap to A. M. Macintosh at the base of the Club scrum. He is, however, inclined to get offside, and would be well advised to check his ardour when within his own 25.

LT. Paine and E. R. A. Doggett were the other forwards to impress. I was greatly surprised to see Linton continually ignore Doggett as a place-kicker. In the line outs the Navy held the upper hand and in the tight scrums Lt. Comdr. Robertson beat F. A. Merry for possession more often than not.

IF only F. O. Beamish, Surg. Lt. Nicholson and Lt. Comdr. Crick were again on the field, what a pack the Navy would have! These three and Lt. Comdr. Broonan, Lt. Pizey, Lt. Hubback, Lt. Linton and E. R. A. Doggett would carry all before them in the Colony at the moment, irrespective of the strength of the supporting backs.

VERY seldom does a forward make a good three-quarter, and the conversion is to be avoided where possible. This year, however, the Club have had to resort to playing both W. E. Peers and R. O. F. King in the back line. It has definitely proved unsatisfactory. On Saturday King was partnering Peers in the early stages of the game, but Peers never got one pass and had to be content to forage on his own. King was both weak with his handling and his passing, and all indications point to an immediate transference back to the scrum.

serums and his play in the loose is very consistent rather than spectacular. A. P. Hall-Thomson and J. C. Millar have proved themselves the best wing forwards in the Colony, and their inclusion is really the only bright spot in a very moderate eight. Millar is undoubtedly a forward of exceptional merit, and he receives abundant support from Hall-Thomson. D. McLellan has been as hard-working as usual in the loose, and his determined tackling has been a feature of his game this season.

TAKING the pack all-round it will be a good thing for the Club when J. H. McElney, F. R. Burch and W. E. Peers again take their places in the scrum.

I would very much like to see E. R. Allera and G. E. R. Divett again in the field, but I fear that the former will not appear again owing to injuries, but the playing of Divett would go a long way to solving the wing three-quarter problem. He is faster than J. J. Ferguson and has a keen sense of initiative. He is, however, leaving for Tientsin shortly, where he is to be married.

KOWLOON are again tackling the Club to-morrow, but their team is not as strong as that which went down to the senior club by 16 pts. to 5 at Sookunpoo. The composition of the Club side is not yet known, but it is understood that J. A. R. Selby, M. W. Turner, G. P. Lammert, A. P. Hall-Thomson, J. C. Millar, and D. McLellan will be included in their side.

The Kowloon team will be as follows: L. D. Skinner; H. Owen Davies; C. B. Easterbrook; T. S. D. Whitley; J. J. Ferguson; L. Peart; A. W. Torrible; T. Watson; R. Stillard; H. Brokenshire; J. E. Wilson; S. Macnicol; Lt. H. R. Prior; J. E. H. Cogan and R. La Roche.

J. L. BONNAR, who was vice-captain and scrum half of the Hong Kong Rugby Club two years ago, has now been elected vice-captain of the Singapore Rugby Club, and fully justifies the confidence placed in him.

Bonnar is one of the best men in Singapore and a certainty for the South team in the annual North versus South game, which concludes the rugby season in Malaya. His tackling has been an outstanding feature of his play, and he is known to be the finest defensive player in the Singapore team.

He now fills the position of scrum half, but will probably play in the three quarter line in the Malaya Cup games, when his dead-end tackling will be a deciding factor in the Club's defence against the Gloucesters.

M. GARRARD, is another Singapore player who has played for Hong Kong in the Interport series and has the distinction of having played for Calcutta, Singapore, Hong Kong and Shanghai.

Last year he was ranked the best forward in the Singapore side. He will, however, be missed from the side this year as an injury to his knee will keep him out of the team this season.

B. P. MASSEY, who two years ago captained Hong Kong, is also in Singapore, his interest in the game now being in the refereeing line, as the injury he received in the Club-Kowloon game has kept him off the field for good.

KOWLOON GOLF

Club Championship Draw For Sunday.

(By Divot.)

The following is the draw for the first round of the Club Championship of the Kowloon Golf Club, which will be decided next Sunday:

G. H. Russell	v. J. McKelvie
D. C. Wilson	v. G. Milne
W. Taylor	v. W. S. Hillier
H. H. Mundy	v. P. W. J. Plimmer
F. E. A. Remedios	v. A. Urquhart
Dr. J. E. H. Cogan	v. A. A. Lopes
J. D. Thomson	v. J. MacKnight
A. T. Bralley	v. G. D. Reid

Miss Waverley Beesley (Sandy Lodge), driving from the 8th tee against Miss K. Merry (Templenewsum), who won by 5 and 3, in the first round of the Girls' Open Golf Championship.

FINAL INTERPORT SOCCER TRIAL

Prospective Eleven Selected.

(By OUTSIDE LEFT.)

The final interport soccer trial takes place this afternoon at 4 p.m. at Caroline Hill when the Royal Navy will provide a strong opposition to the interport trial team.

Rodger again fills the goal-keeper's position and should be safe. Martin and S. Strange are together in the full back line and will prove a formidable pair, while the half back line is at full strength with the return of Bliss and Barber, the latter being a certainty for the pivot position. Duncan will, however, have to play well above his form, if he is to displace Tong Kwan at left half.

B. Gosano is also a certainty for the team and will fill the outside right position. Wong Mei-shun, who gave a good account of himself on Saturday last, should fill the inside right position, while Johnson is disputing for Howe at centre forward.

Suen Kam-shun and Baldry should do well on the left wing, the winger being particularly good.

The best Hong Kong eleven that I can see is as follows: Rodger; Mullane and S. Strange; Bliss, Barber and Tong Kwan; B. Gosano; Wong Mei-shun; Howe; Jones and Baldry. The reserves will probably be E. Strange, Duncan and Beltrac.

LEYTON OPEN GAME PAYS.

Leyton 6, Dulwich Hamlet 0. Dulwich Hamlet suffered a severe handicap in their first round London Charity Club tie at Leyton, Hamer, their centre half, being off the field injured while all the goals were scored.

Nevertheless, they contributed to their own defeat by close passing, pretty work against tenacious half-backs and backs.

In the second half the Hamlet rearranged their side, Benka going left half, and Toser, a most promising young player, acting as pivot. Again, however, the Hamlet held the ball too close, and Morrish was badly neglected.

Leyton, playing the open game at a great pace, scored through Moule, Read (two), Collins (three), the latter being a splendid outside right.

FIRST 'BOROUGH HOME WIN.

"Pompey" Foiled At The Last Minute.

By Checker.

Middlesbrough 5, Portsmouth 4.

A last-minute goal enabled Middlesbrough to gain their first home victory of the season at the expense of Portsmouth, who were beaten 5-4.

The Borough were the superior team in the first half. Their forward work was especially smart, the ball being swung from wing to wing with fine precision, and they deserved their lead at the end of twenty minutes, though their two goals were of a somewhat freakish kind.

The first was scored by Cam-sell with an overhead kick five yards out, the ball going into the net off a Portsmouth defender.

Five minutes later, during an exciting struggle in the Portsmouth goalmouth, Cameron back-heeled the ball into the net through a crowd of players.

Portsmouth took a long time to settle down, but near half-time the forwards found their form and Weddle scored after Rutherford had struck a goalpost.

Cameron, within five minutes of resuming, headed a third goal for Middlesbrough following a corner.

Then followed some whirlwind play by the Portsmouth forwards, and in five minutes three goals were scored through Eason, Friar, and Rutherford.

Middlesbrough, however, also demonstrated that they were capable of smashing raids.

Camsell equalised, and in an exciting finish Williams scored the winning goal.

CHINESE BASKETBALL.

The basketball team of the Wah Yan College is leaving for Macao on Wednesday to play friendly matches with teams in Macao, and will arrive back in the Colony on Sunday next.

HERMES AND MEDWAY TEAMS DROP OUT

MAMAK SHIELD LOSS

Leading Goal-Scorers TO Date.

"Y" LADIES RECRUIT.

(By Centre Half.)

ANOTHER point of interest which arises from the Tournament is the time of commencing matches during the week. For service teams 4.15 p.m. is suitable, but civilian teams are experiencing no little difficulty in assembling full teams at the commencement of the fixture. While it is true that fifteen minutes grace is given, civilian players still find it hard to get off in time for their match. According to rule 40 for the Mamak Hockey Tournament matches are scheduled to commence at 4 p.m. in December and January. It will then be almost impossible for civilian teams to turn out on time.

THE "Y" Ladies have been considerably strengthened by the inclusion of Mrs. Cooke at inside-right. She made her debut for the "Y" ladies in their match against the St. Andrews Club Ladies on Saturday last.

The following will represent the Y.M.C.A. first eleven in their friendly fixture against the Club de Reccer at King's Park to-day at 5.15 p.m.—A. A. O'Neil; A. Tate; E. O. Murphy; B. A. Bates; D. McLellan; F. S. W. Smith; T. J. Price; G. C. Burnett; W. J. Brown; H. Sommers; C. Andrews.

THE "H. M. S. Medway "B" eleven has made a brilliant debut in the Tournament, winning their first two matches at the expense of the R.A. O.C. and the German Club, and collecting a total of 11 goals, of which Hawgood, lays claim to 7. The Medway possess a strong team, and in Evans they have a very safe custodian. Nosworthy in a good right wing, while Hawgood, at centre-forward, is worth watching. They are well served in defence by Dunn, at centre-half.

THE following is a list of the leading goal-scorers in the Mamak Tournament, and should prove of interest to many, the qualification being five goals. A. E. P. Guest (St. Andrews) heads the list with 20 goals to his credit scored in seven matches, while Gurabachan Singh (Radio) with 13 is second, to be followed by Lt. Whiteway-Wilkinson (Signals) 11, Hawgood (Medway) 7, and E. F. Fincher (St. Andrews) 5.

ONE of the fastest and best O.S.C. ground, at King's Park, was played between the Club first eleven and H.M.S. Medway Officers' team. The Club were without the services of Williams, who was replaced by Guest. The experiment of playing A. T. Lay at centre-forward did not prove successful, as Lay is definitely a left winger, possessing great pace. It will be recalled that Lay failed at centre-forward in the first Trial match at King's Park. Of the Medway team, Higham, in goal, Colpois, at right back, White, at centre-half, Currie at centre-forward, and Donald, on the right wing, were among their best players. A feature of the game was the one-handed clearances of Colpois, who has a very strong hit, even when using only one hand.

IT is an unusual distinction for the Mid-Surrey Hockey Club to have two of their foremost members, the Nawab of Pataudi and F. R. Brown, with the England Test cricket team. It would not be surprising if, during their tour, the two players hear something of Australia's keenness on playing hockey matches with England. More than once official overtures have been made to the Hockey Association, and it is believed guarantees offered, but always there has been the difficulty of England raising a representative team, owing to the time that would be involved in an Antipodean trip.

Parker Adderson, Philosopher

The general blushed like a girl, and they fought blindly in the darkness. The provost-marshal sprang to the assistance of his superior officer, and was himself slain nothing. The spy continued: "You fire, and I have in my stomach what I did not swallow. I fall, but am not dead. After a half hour of agony I am dead. But at any given instant of that half hour I was either alive or dead. There is no transition period."

"When I am hanged to-morrow morning it will be quite the same; while conscious I shall be living; when dead, unconscious. Nature appears to have ordered the matter quite in my interest—the way that I should have ordered it myself. It is so simple," he added with a smile, "that it seems hardly worth while to be hanged at all."

At the finish of his remarks there was a silence. The general sat, impressive, looking into the man's face, but apparently not attentive to what had been said. It was as if his eyes had mounted guard over the prisoner, while his mind concerned itself with other matters. Presently he drew a long, deep breath, shuddered, as one awakened from a dreadful dream, and exclaimed almost inaudibly: "Death is horrible!"—this man of death.

"It was horrible to our savage ancestors," said the spy, gravely, "because they had not enough intelligence to dissociate the idea of consciousness from the idea of the physical forms in which it is manifested—as an even lower order of intelligence, that of the monkey, for example, may be unable to imagine a house without inhabitants, and seeing a ruined hut fancied a suffering occupant. To us it is horrible because we have inherited the tendency to think it so, accounting for the notion by wild and fanciful theories of another world—as names of places give rise to legends explaining them, and reasonable conduct to philosophies in justification. You can hang me, general, but there your power of evil ends; you cannot condemn me to heaven."

The general appeared not to have heard; the spy's talk had turned his thoughts into an unfamiliar channel, but there they pursued their way independently to conclusions of their own. The storm had ceased, and something of the solemn spirit of the night had imparted itself to his reflections, giving them the sombre tinge of a supernatural dread. Perhaps there was an element of prescience in it. "I should not like to die," he said—"not to-night."

He was interrupted—if, indeed, he had intended to speak further—by the entrance of an officer of his staff, Captain Hasterlick, the provost-marshal. This recalled him to himself; the absent look passed away from his face.

"Captain," he said, acknowledging the officer's salute, "this man is a Yankee spy captured inside our lines with incriminating papers on him. He has confessed. How is the weather?"

"The storm is over, sir, and the moon shining."

"Good; take a file of men, conduct him at once to the parade-ground, and shoot him."

A sharp cry broke from the spy's lips. He threw himself forward, thrust out his neck, expanded his eyes, clenched his hands.

"Good God!" he cried hoarsely, almost inarticulately; "you do not mean that! You forget—I am not to die until morning."

"I have said nothing of morning," replied the general, coldly; "that was an assumption of your own. You die now."

"But, general, I beg—I implore you to remember; I am to hang! It will take some time to erect the gallows—two hours—an hour. Spies are hanged; I have rights under military law. For Heaven's sake, general, consider how short—"

"Captain, observe my directions." The officer drew his sword, and, fixing his eyes upon the prisoner, pointed silently to the opening of the tent. The prisoner, deathly pale, hesitated; the officer grasped him by the collar and pushed him gently forward. As he approached the tent-pole the frantic man sprang to it, and, with catlike agility, seized the handle of the bowie knife, plucked the weapon from the scabbard, and, thrusting the captain aside, leaped upon the general with the fury of a madman, hurling him to the ground and falling headlong upon him as he lay. The table was overturned, the candle extinguished, and they fought blindly in the darkness. The provost-marshal sprang to the assistance of his superior officer, and was himself slain nothing. The spy continued: "You fire, and I have in my stomach what I did not swallow. I fall, but am not dead. After a half hour of agony I am dead. But at any given instant of that half hour I was either alive or dead. There is no transition period."

The report alarmed the camp; drums beat the long roll and bugles sounded the assembly, bringing swarms of half-clad men into the moonlight, dressing as they ran, and falling into line at the sharp commands of their officers. This was well; being in line the men were under control; they stood at arms while the general's staff and the men of his escort brought order out of confusion by lifting off the fallen tent and pulling apart the breathless and bleeding actors in that strange contention.

Breathless, indeed, was one; the captain was dead, the handle of the bowie knife protruding from his throat and pressed back beneath his chin until the end had caught in the angle of the jaw, and the hand that delivered the blow had been unable to remove the weapon. In the dead man's hand was his sword, clenched with a grip that defied the strength of the living. Its blade was streaked with red to the hilt.

Lifted to his feet, the general sank back to the earth with a moan and fainted. Besides his bruises he had two sword-thrusts—one through the thigh, the other through the shoulder.

They spy had suffered the least damage. Apart from a broken right arm, his wounds were such only as might have been incurred in an ordinary combat with nature's weapons. But he was dazed, and seemed hardly to know what had occurred. He shrank away from those attending him, cowered upon the ground, and uttered unintelligible remonstrances.

His face, swollen by blows and stained with gouts of blood, nevertheless showed white beneath his dishevelled hair—as white as that of a corpse.

"The man is not insane," said the surgeon in reply to a question; "he is suffering from fright. Who and what is he?"

Private Tassman began to explain. It was the opportunity of his life; he omitted nothing that could in any way accentuate the importance of his own relation to the night's events. When he had finished his story and was ready to begin it again, nobody gave him any attention.

The general had now recovered consciousness. He raised himself upon his elbow, looked about him, and, seeing the spy crouching by a camp fire, guarded, said simply: "Take that man to the parade-ground and shoot him."

"The general's mind wanders," said an officer standing near.

"His mind does not wander," the adjutant-general said. "I have a memorandum from him about this business; he had given that same order to Hasterlick—with a motion of the hand toward the dead provost-marshal—and, by God! it shall be executed."

Ten minutes later Sergeant Parker Adderson, of the Federal army, philosopher and wit, kneeling in the moonlight and begging incoherently for his life, was shot to death by twenty men. As the volley rang out upon the keen air of the winter midnight, General Clavering, lying white and still in the red glow of the camp-fire, opened his big blue eyes, looked pleasantly upon those about him, and said, "How silent it all is!"

The surgeon looked at the adjutant-general, gravely and significantly. The patient's eyes slowly closed, and thus he lay for a few moments; then, his face suffused with a smile of ineffable sweetness, he said faintly, "I suppose this must be death," and so passed away.

FIVE YEAR PACT NOT BINDING.
Canadian Liberals On Preferences.

Ottawa, To-day.
If returned to power the Liberal Party will not consider itself bound by any policy initiated by the present administration, declared Mr.
W. L. Mackenzie King, former Prime Minister, in the discussion on the duration of the Ottawa agreements in the House of Commons, after the declaration of Premier R. B. Bennett that while Parliament was entirely free constitutionally, he considered it in honour bound to observe the agreements for a five year period.
The Liberal Party is fundamentally a "free trade" body, though "reciprocity" has always been its cry.—Reuter.

NEW PROPOSALS WILL PROTECT LABOURING MAN.

under the proposed scheme of unemployment assistance, separate from the poor law, are as follows.
The assistance should be subject to proof of need. The need of the applicant should be judged after an assessment of the resources of the household, of which he is a member.
The amount of the payment must be less than wages. The standards to be established should be those which experience shows to be required to relieve need.

The commission express the view that the insurance scheme must

EUROPEAN WOMAN IS ATTACKED

Mrs. H. K. Holmes, the wife of
Mr. H. K. Holmes, C.B.E., Crown
Solicitor, residing at 17, Bowen Road, was the victim of an astonishing attack yesterday evening while waiting for her chair.
At about 6.15 p.m., Mrs. Holmes was standing outside 5, Bowen
Road, when two Chinese men, aged between 20 and 30 years, one dressed in white and the other in blue clothing, attacked her. They threw pepper in her face and over her clothing, but curiously enough made no attempt to rob her.
They ran away and have not been seen again. Motive for the attack is at present unknown, and Police are investigating.

possess flexibility in order to permit an adjustment to the changing industrial conditions, and recommend the establishment of an independent, statutory commission as an advisory body to the Minister of Labour, and to keep the scheme constantly under review. This body would report annually on the finances of the scheme and make suggestions for keeping the insurance fund solvent and self-supporting.
The commission warmly commend the existing schemes, official and voluntary, for providing the young unemployed with vocational training, and urge that they be developed.—
British Wireless Service.

TEA EXPORTING REGULATIONS.

Associations Report
Good Progress.

London, To-day.
The India and Ceylon Tea Associations have made statements of their negotiations respecting the regulation of tea exports, which are proceeding satisfactorily and without delay other than that involved by the necessity of consulting continuously with Eastern interests.
The object of the tea producers is to limit the quantity placed upon the market, and prevent a glut and consequent price collapse.—Reuter.

BERLIN TRAFFIC STRIKE ENDS.

Full Service To Resume
At Once.

Berlin, To-day.
The Radical Strike Committee has called off the traffic strike and it is expected that a full service will be resumed at once.

The city was incommode-
d greatly by the tie-up of tramways before the elections. Communists baricaded and dug up the track lines.

The demands of agitators for a complete strike of transport workers of all sorts, however, failed.—Reuter.
